

TREATIES WITH GREAT POWERS

Knox Negotiating with France and Great Britain.

FAVORS GENERAL ARBITRATION

Secretary of State and President Hope to Open Way for Settlement of International Difficulties Without Recourse to Arms.

Washington, May 18.—Secretary of State Knox began diplomatic negotiations with Great Britain and France for general arbitration treaties between those countries and the United States for the settlement of all future disputes.

The announcement of the negotiations with France comes as a surprise to diplomatic Washington. It has been known that a convention of this kind would be arranged between this country and France, but the understanding was that it would not be undertaken until the treaty with Great Britain has been consummated.

The action of the United States in thus undertaking to negotiate treaties with two of the great powers of Europe which shall make possible the settlement of all future controversies by peaceful methods represents the most advanced attitude ever taken by any nation of the world toward the realization of international peace. The proposed convention will supersede existing arbitration treaties between this country and Great Britain and between this country and France.

The proposed convention will be practically identical in substance and in form. A draft to be used as a model was laid before the cabinet by President Taft and was approved. Then copies were transmitted to the British ambassador and J. J. Jusserand, the French ambassador in Washington.

The treaties, as submitted by the United States to France and England, provide for arbitration by The Hague court of all questions that are regarded by the contracting parties as proper for arbitration.

Other disputes not regarded as properly subject to arbitration are to be submitted to a commission of inquiry to be composed of members of the permanent court of The Hague. This commission under the conditions of the draft submitted by the United States shall investigate and report whether or not the controversies are arbitrable and an affirmative opinion will be binding upon both parties to the treaty.

This commission also will be empowered to make recommendations for the settlement of controversies.

The negotiations towards these arbitration conventions are to be credited directly to President Taft. He feels that the negotiation of such arbitration treaties as are proposed between this country and Great Britain will be a long step toward world-wide peace and will operate directly toward the reduction of armament.

YOUNG MAN DESERTS WIFE

Recital of Domestic Woe in Five-Cent Theater Causes Act.

Indianapolis, May 18.—After witnessing in a five-cent theater a recital of domestic woes that reached its climax when the husband left home, Robert Harvey, nineteen years old, left his seventeen-year-old bride of six months sitting in the theater and went to their home, where he packed his suitcase and departed.

This was the story told by Rosa Harvey when she swore out a warrant for Harvey's arrest on the charge of wife desertion. According to Mrs. Harvey she and her young husband were still living in their honeymoon and all was happiness until they attended the motion picture show. They had had no trouble previous to that time, the girl said, and when her husband left the theater on a pretext she had no suspicion until returning home alone, she found she had been deserted.

DEATH HASTENED BY WORRY

Shiawassee Ex-Treasurer Advised Lost Loan to County.

Owosso, Mich., May 18.—Richard F. Kay, for two terms county treasurer of Shiawassee and for many years supervisor, died at his home in Morrice. He was sixty-five years old and a bachelor. When the board of supervisors was borrowing money to complete the courthouse, after the appropriation had been exhausted, Kay's cousins, Mrs. Susan Moxley and Mrs. Katherine McCarthy, of Morrice, loaned about $5,000 on his advice.

Their claims were among many subsequently pronounced illegal by the courts. Worry over this is believed to have hastened the death of Mr. Kay, although he had made in his will provision for the reimbursement of his cousins, with interest.

BEEF TRUST IS "GOOD"

Packers Are Seeking a Clean Bill of Health.

Renew Fight to Escape Trial As a Combination in Restraint of Trade—Ask Rerearing.

Chicago, May 18.—Seeing new hope in Standard Oil's death blow, the indicted beef packers renewed their fight to escape trial as a combination in restraint of trade under the Sherman anti-trust law. Citing the supreme court decision a motion filed before Judge Carpenter asked a rehearing to the indictments which the judge overruled a few days ago, supposedly winding up the long series of technical delays on which the attorneys for the beef men have relied.

The momentous word "unreasonable," which the supreme court jurists have engrafted on the Sherman law, is what the packers' legal staff relies on to convince Judge Carpenter that he was in error. The attorneys interpret the supreme court's decision as meaning that combinations in restraint of trade are not unlawful in themselves.

No evidence of "unreasonable" monopoly by the packing combine has been shown, they contend. In short, the beef alliance proudly lines up in the forefront of the "good trusts" and asks that a clean bill of health be granted it.

Judge Carpenter gave counsel for the ten indicted packers a week in which to prepare in written form their arguments for a rehearing on his decision upholding the indictments.

GIVES LIFE FOR OTHERS

Detroit Policeman Succumbs After Arousing People in Peril.

Detroit, Mich., May 18.—Policeman Henry Walpole sacrificed his life to save the lives of several persons who were sleeping in the third-story of a building at 137-139 Bates street, which was shattered by an explosion, believed to have been caused by gasoline.

Walpole rushed from the police station near by, fought his way through the flames, and succeeded in alarming the sleepers. Then he succumbed to an attack of heart disease.

FEAR MAN IS SHANGHAIED

Relatives Ask Government to Aid in Rescue of Missouri Man.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—The United States government was asked to lend its assistance to find A. N. Morrison, a real estate dealer of Webb City, Mo., who mysteriously disappeared from Seattle, Wash., May 4.

Relatives expressed the belief that he has been shanghaied, and now is being held a captive on a vessel sailing from Seattle to Alaskan waters. Officials of the treasury department have directed the revenue cutter service in the vicinity of Seattle to lend whatever aid possible.

The real leader of the gang, Clarence Shaw, is a minor, and probably will be sent to the boys' reform school.

MATTERS STILL ARE UNDECIDED

Madero Says One Thing and Carbajal Another.

NO ARMISTICE AGREED UPON

Insurrecto Cabinet Meets and Talks of Peace Arrangements—Dramatic Meeting of Hot-Blooded Officers Is Just Prevented.

El Paso, May 18.—Madero declares that no general armistice will be agreed upon without a perfect and complete understanding as to the terms of peace.

Judge Carbajal, evidently expecting a message from Mexico City, says that absolutely nothing has been agreed upon officially, while the provisional officers infer that certain terms have been agreed upon.

A meeting of Madero's cabinet was held, with peace talk occupying most of the time. It had been decided to establish certain major points to be requested of the Diaz government and in case of their acceptance to call an armistice while the details on minor points, such as the selection of the governors of the states and so forth, should be made after the armistice had been declared.

Madero made the statement that he had agreed to drop his demand for the minister of education to be named by his faction. At first he demanded the privilege of naming the minister of education, who controls the interior government of the states of Mexico; the minister of war; the minister of justice, and the minister of education. If he has dropped his demand for the ministry of education, it is then evident that he insists upon naming the men for the other cabinet positions.

It is estimated that the provisional government will come into possession of $270,000 Mexican currency from the custom house maintained in Juarez.

Shortly before 3 p. m. Colonel Pancho Villa, the reformed bandit and rebel, calmly walked into the lobby of the Sheldon hotel, where Colonel Giuseppe Garibaldi, another insurrecto commander, was chatting with some friends. In a perfectly quiet manner Garibaldi was surrounded by secret service men while Villa was led from the lobby by Mayor Kelly, accompanied by plain clothes police.

It is given out that Colonel Villa was not arrested, although arms were removed from his person. The authorities had received a confidential tip that Villa had intentions not peaceful on the Italian soldier of fortune as the result of a long standing disagreement. Villa slapped Garibaldi before the battle of Juarez. Villa appeared in street clothes and was recognized by few on that account. Garibaldi remained cool throughout the entire proceedings.

REBELS CAPTURE PACHUCA

Many Buildings Burned and There Was Much Looting and Violence.

Washington, May 18.—Henry Lane Wilson, American ambassador at Mexico City, reported to the state department the capture of the town of Pachuca, the capital of the state of Hidalgo. Many buildings were burned, he said, and four banks demolished. The jails were emptied and the governor of the state imprisoned.

Ambassador Wilson adds that there was considerable violence and looting until the arrival of organized bands of revolutionists who restored order in the city.

Has His Share of Bad Luck.

Perry, Mich., May 18.—Misfortunes in rapid succession have made existence a burden for Earl Meyers, twenty-four years old. He was operated upon for appendicitis a few months ago. During the convalescent period he went hunting, stumbled over a root and the accidental discharge of his gun shattered several fingers. He had just gotten so he could resume work when a colt kicked him in the spot that had been opened for the operation for appendicitis. The young man is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Meyers, in a serious condition.

Driest May in Years.

Eaton Rapids, Mich., May 18.—The water in Grand river has never reached so low a point here in the month of May as at the present time, and it is at as low a stage as is ever reached in the middle of the summer. No rain for three weeks is the cause of it, and it is also the cause of much anxiety among the farmers, whose crops are receiving a serious setback for want of moisture. It is the driest month of May ever known in this section.

MERCHANTS UP IN ARMS ON ACCOUNT OF DUST

The merchants on East Cross street are complaining because the street in front of their stores is not kept sprinkled. The dust and fine sand blew in in such large quantities Wednesday that the doors had to be closed in a number of the stores. The Ypsilanti Milling company were considerably inconvenienced as the dirt blew into the flour and a number of barrels had to be gone over the second time, the garments of the underwear company were so soiled by the dust that the windows and doors had to be closed, many of the garments are made of the finest white goods and bring high prices and the company can not afford to have them spoiled. The grocery stores of D. L. Davis and McPherson and House also were obliged to close their doors on account of the nuisance.

For the past few weeks the streets have been sprinkled the water being taken from the hydrant. Wednesday, however, the city officials objected to the hydrant's being used for this purpose as it might be out of commission in case of fire. The city claims that they gave the residents in that vicinity permission to move the stand pipe, which was on River street near the corner of Cross, to near the front of Lee Brown's law office last year. The city claims that the stand pipe was taken away from River street but it failed to be put in near Mr. Brown's office. The question arises where is the stand pipe? Some say it is lost.

Mayor Townier called the attention of the council at the last meeting to the East Cross street paving which has never been completed, this, he says, should be attended to at once. A suitable top dressing should be put on and kept wet. He also called attention to the fact that the remainder of the street to Huron should in some manner be treated with a dressing, or paved so that the present nuisance from dust and dirt may be abated.

She has three grandsons.

Mrs. Cole recently joined the Methodist church in Ypsilanti by letter, though she had for many years been an active worker in the Free Church, and a former pastor of this church, Rev. F. L. Leonard, will preach the funeral sermon.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home, and the interment will be in Cherry Hill cemetery, where an infant son of Mrs. Cole is buried.

KIRBY ATTACKS UNITED LABOR

Favors Forcible Dissolution of American Federation.

IS CHOSEN PRESIDENT AGAIN

National Manufacturers' Association Winds Up Its Sixteenth Annual Meeting and Passes Dramatic Resolutions.

New York, May 18.—The National Manufacturers' Association wound up its sixteenth annual meeting by re-electing John Kirby, Jr., its president.

In thanking the manufacturers he said he had seen comments on his speech attacking the Federation of Labor and the Civic Federation and he said Dr. Charles W. Eliot had once referred to a speech of his as too intense.

"But at this time," said Mr. Kirby, "I want to call attention to the fact—and I am violating no confidence, because Dr. Eliot has given me permission to make public his correspondence—that Dr. Eliot, in practically these words wrote to me that he was glad to say that he had been relieved of his affiliation with the executive body of the National Civic Federation."

Mr. Kirby made this prediction: "I believe that in five years conditions will be such that the independent laboring man will be able to go about without the fear of being hit on the head with a piece of lead pipe or blow up."

The manufacturers applauded this statement and passed resolutions calling on President Taft to have the department of justice investigate instances where dynamite has been used in labor troubles, to take steps to punish those who enforce the boycott and to take means "to assure the enforcing of the law for the protection of life, liberty and property of citizens menaced by the acts and purposes of these combinations," and to bring about the dissolution of such combinations, meaning primarily the American Federation of Labor.

Edward F. Croker, ex-chief of the fire department, got a warm greeting from the manufacturers when he spoke on fire prevention. Croker bluntly told the manufacturers that he quit the New York department after twenty-seven years, twelve years of which he was the boss fire fighter, because of what he saw at the Asche building fire.

TOM SOPWITH, DARING ENGLISH

AVIATOR, SMASHES A MONOPLANE

MAKING A START

New York, May 18.—Tom Sopwith, the daring English aviator, will make flights at Point Breeze, near Philadelphia this week, though for a time the other day at Minola it looked like his career as a flier was near an end. Sopwith was trying a new Blériot monoplane at the Moisant grounds and was carrying Philip Wilcox, a passenger. While 300 feet in the air a gust of wind caught one wing of the machine, careened it, and he began a rapid descent. Sopwith tried to direct the machine upward, but did not have sufficient room, and the machine struck the ground with such force that it was wrecked. Wilcox jumped just as the machine landed and escaped with a few bruises. Sopwith stuck to his seat and was cut about the face. Sopwith won a prize of $20,000 last year by flying from England across the English channel to Belgium. He afterward landed his machine at Windsor castle and took luncheon with King George.

Tangier, Morocco, May 18.—A courier who recently left this city for Fez returned here and reported that he was unable to get within ten miles of the southern capital, having been turned back by the rebellious tribesmen.

A fierce battle, according to the courier, was in progress around Fez. The sultan's troops had left the city and were engaging the rebels in the environs. Both sides were fighting desperately. The rebels admitted having suffered heavy losses.

All road communication out of Fez is cut and couriers are menaced with death.

STATEHOOD BILL UP

Solons Differ on Questions Affecting New Mexico and Arizona.

Washington, May 18.—Debate in the house on the joint statehood resolution to admit Arizona and New Mexico was continued. The amendment requiring the people of Arizona to vote again on the recall of the judiciary was the chief subject of discussion. Many Republicans opposed resubmitting the constitution of New Mexico with a proposed amendment because Arizona was held back.

Democrats of the ways and means committee resumed consideration of the woolen schedule of the tariff bill.

PLANS FOR DEATH OF RECIPROCITY

Movement Organized in Senate to Kill Canadian Pact.

SOME STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

Standpat Republicans, Tariff-for-Revenue Democrats and Insurgent Republicans Make Common Cause Against President's Pet.

Washington, May 18.—Evidence continues to pile up showing an organized movement in the senate to delay the Canadian reciprocity bill and finally to kill it by the indirect method of amending it in a way that must prove fatal by adding a free list bill.

Unusual forces have rallied to the support of the plan. Standpat Republicans, who usually insist that the tariff duties cannot be laid too high to suit them, tariff-for-revenue Democrats, who have been reading their "free raw material" brethren out of the party on the ground that such doctrine is rank heresy, and insurgent Republicans, who insist they were the original advocates of Canadian reciprocity with a condition, namely, that it should be accompanied by a general revision downward on many articles, and a free list—all those are working together to amend the bill.

Opposing the proposed free list amendment are Democrats who stand for a general lowering of duties and an enlargement of the free list, but who insist that Canadian reciprocity is a step in the right direction and that it ought to be accepted as such, to be followed by the other tariff reforms in their order. And for this attitude these Democrats are being chided by their tariff-for-revenue brethren as being inconsistent.

Senator Bailey, tariff-for-revenue Democratic member of the finance committee, and his colleague and sympathizer, Senator Simmons of North Carolina, are working hand in glove with their insurgent colleagues, Senator LaFollette and their standpat Republican colleagues, Senators Smoot, Gallinger, Heyburn and Clark, in opposition to Canadian reciprocity and in favor of a free list.

Predictions are made about the senate that the reciprocity bill will be amended by adding a free list or an amendment providing a general lowering of duties and that it will fail.

The opponents of the agreement admit that on the merits of the question standing as a single proposition Canadian reciprocity will command from ten to fifteen majority in the senate. With objectionable free list amendments an excuse might be offered to many senators to justify their action in voting against it.

They were sent to the barracks at Columbus, O.

THIRD DEATH IN FAMILY WITHIN FIVE WEEKS

William Donahue passed away Wednesday morning at half past ten o'clock at his home in Jackson. He was employed as foreman of the cement works in that city and injuries he sustained at the works caused hardening of the liver, it is alleged. He was 32 years of age and is survived by a widow, his mother, two brothers and three sisters. Mr. Donahue was born in Ypsilanti, was married eleven years ago to Miss Mary Smith and moved from this city eleven years ago. In Jackson he belonged to the Order of the Moose. The funeral will be held in Jackson at the Catholic church on Friday and interment will take place in St. John's cemetery, Ypsilanti.

PLACE WITHOUT HONOR.

Those of our readers who may have picked up the Cosmopolitan magazine for June will find as its initial article one entitled, "What are you going to do about it—the senatorship that cost $111,335 plus?" It is a graphic description of the way in which it is alleged that Senator Stephenson from Wisconsin secured his seat in the United States Senate. The serious side of the matter is that, if Senator Stephenson is guilty as alleged, and we have seen no proof that he isn't—the dishonor and disgrace do not attach alone to Mr. Stephenson. If he is a man who would stoop to do these things, he would not feel very keenly probably the dishonor and the disgrace which accompany a transaction of this kind.

But the deeper dishonor and the deeper disgrace and humiliation as well come to the American people at large, when it becomes generally known that a lumber baron, or any other baron, or representative of purely materialistic interests, can buy his way into the United States senate. It matters not whether he buys it with so many hundreds of thousands of dollars or even a million of dollars, or whether he buys it through some less brutal form of bribery. The possibility of its being done at all is the stiletto below the fifth rib in our political structure.

The unfortunate and the dangerous feature of a proposition of this kind is that the same interests which will buy their way brutally into legislative halls will, by the same corrupt means, corrupt if possible every legitimate effort to right the wrong they have already done the people. Senator Lorimer affords the latest and freshest illustration of the unsuccessful effort to undo a wrong of this kind.

The United States senate so far has regularly refused when it came to an actual vote to unseat a member surrounded by such suspicious circumstances and where the evidence, so far as the people at large are concerned, has been sufficient to convince them of the guilt of the senator. Senator Lorimer is still in the United States senate. The copper baron from Montana is still there. Senator Gugenheim from Colorado of the smelter trust is still there. Senator Smoot from Utah is still there. There are a goodly number of other gentlemen holding seats in the United States senate around which a lesser amount of suspicion lingers, and who are always found voting with the interests when the vote is called.

And yet we find a few apologists still and a lessening number of students of political economy who object to the people adopting the principles of the initiative, the referendum and the recall and the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. But the people are bound to suspect that the fellows who are opposed to these wholesome political measures are those who profit by the corporation in politics and who put men a little lower than money in their standards of estimation.

The optimistic side of the whole political situation is that the people are demanding thorough investigation of these charges, and they are not content with any whitewashing processes. These processes which have been successful have not satisfied the people and are only aiding in the hastening of the approval of these wholesome political measures which will enable the people to rectify these errors if they occur and do it in less than six years—the term of office of a United States senator. And we believe it to be fortunate too that the number of newspapers and magazines which is willing to expose this sort of thing is on the increase. We have nothing but contempt for the periodical publisher who will take long chances on the truth of the fact he is putting out. But the publisher who goes to large expense and pains to get the facts and then gives them out to the people is doing constructive service for better government. If this sort of corruption went on unrebuked, we might well despair of ever correcting it. But with an alert press, and a people willing to listen and investigate, we can root this out as we surely will within the next few years.

For the benefit of the uninitiated it is only fair to say that the poultry business can hardly be classed as an inexpensive, easy, no worry, get-rich-quick occupation. Rather it requires brains, persistence, patience, courage and some other staying qualities. The novice should take it upon a small scale. For those not having experience in the business farmers' bulletin No. 287 on "Poultry Management" will be found instructive and helpful.

If madness does develop, persons bitten by it should be given the Pasteur treatment at once, while if it does not there is no danger whatever.

The national pure food law adopted in 1906 has done wonders in putting a stop to the dishonest as well as harmful adulteration of food products, drugs, etc. Another law needed equally bad and which would be of incalculable value to the agricultural interests of the country would be a federal pure seed law which would not only prevent the transportation of adulterated or otherwise worthless seeds from one state to another, but their importation of such seeds from foreign countries. Agriculture is so important an interest and its effects so far-reaching that congress ought to see its way clear to do this much in its behalf.

The apple, the most popular of cultivated fruits, has a history that traces back into the far distant past. It is said that carbonized apples from 5,000 to 7,000 years old have been found in the mud of the stone age, while pieces apparently cut as for drying have been found beneath the ruins of the lake dwellers. Apples were cultivated by the ancient Romans and were introduced into Britain before the conquest by the Romans and by the third century had spread over the entire island. Apple seeds were brought to New England in 1620, and an orchard of considerable area was set out in Rhode Island in 1636. The many varieties of apples in the country at the present time have been developed from the trees first set in New England.

If the rainfall continues short it will be a part of wisdom to get the corn ground in shape with the use of the drag, this provided that the plow land is sufficiently mellow. Not only will they devour weeds and herbage, but will strip the leaves from brush and peel the bark from smooth barked trees. And while they are engaged in the job they give a fair interest return on the money invested in them by the gains they make, if young animals.

As high as $2,000 and $3,000 per acre has been paid for western fruit land, but these figures are modest compared with $5,000 per acre, the figure at which tobacco land is held on the Isle of Pines. This island is situated about thirty-five miles south of Cuba, in the Caribbean sea, and its fertile soil and balmy climate make it the finest tobacco raising section in the world. With the completion of the Panama canal it is expected that the island will become far better known.

Old Tantalus, Phrygia's mythical king, may have gazed on water which always eluded his thirsty lips and luscious fruits which hung just beyond his reach, but he was spared the vexation of seeing fat 1,500 pound steers go by his door en route to some central market to tickle the palate of some urban nabob when he was corkscrewed that the next day for dinner he must be content with a slice of steak from some old brindled female of many summers and a career replete with honors and offspring.

Some very useful inventions and discoveries trace their origin to very humble sources. To illustrate, a fellow of the name of Johnson, residence unimportant, some years ago noticed that the droppings of an old hen that roosted in the carriage shed loosened the varnish wherever they fell on parts of the buggy. This set him to thinking, and shortly he secured a patent for a varnish remover made of extract of hen manure mixed with a cheap grade of turpentine. This man is now living on the interest of his money and wears a silk hat and drives a $5,000 touring car.

A robin that the writer has been watching the past few days is building a nest in the crotch of an apple tree not more than thirty feet from the ground. The tree is located at a point some distance from the house and in a spot much frequented by cats. We have decided to safeguard this nesting place by encircling the tree with a piece of wire netting to keep the cats from having access to the trunk. A year or so ago robins built in a plum tree not far from this apple tree and even closer to the ground, and both parent birds and little ones fell victims to prowling cats.

One of the most interesting of the migratory birds is the white throated sparrow, which in size and general appearance resembles the song sparrow. It may be distinguished from the latter, however, by the pronounced black and white striped cap which it wears and a white throat from which mark it takes its name. The song of this sparrow is a high pitched sweet and very clear whistle, which some one has interpreted "pea-bo-dy-bird," the last syllable or two being pitched a trifle lower than the rest. During their migration the white throated sparrows are often seen in flocks of a dozen or more. They build their nests on the ground on the border of woodland or swamp, and they are usually made of grass and leaves.

Experience of experiment station and orchard men covering several years proves very conclusively that a big majority—about 80 per cent—of the worms that enter apples do so at the blossom end. The codling moth lays its eggs in the calyx cup within a period of about ten days after the petals fall. It is during this interval that the tree should be given a thorough spraying with an arsenate of lead solution at the rate of about two pounds to fifty gallons of water, the object being to deposit a little of the poison in each one of these calyx cups. If one is spraying to check apple scab or other fungous pests with the Bordeaux solution or summer lime sulphur mixture the arsenate may be added to the same volume of these. But whether applied in water or with them the liquid should be given frequent stirring to insure an even distribution of the poison.

CATTLE RAISING IN TENNESSEE.

A young man living at Manitowoc, Wis., who is a reader of these notes wrote recently inquiring as to the proposition of raising cattle in the Cumberland mountain district in Tennessee. He asks why it is that cattle-men have not turned to this section in the past, as there are large tracts of suitable land that can be got at a very reasonable price. He inquires what breed of cattle would do best, what would be the best way to get a start in a given breed and about the wisdom of making a deal with wealthy coal men in the section referred to, they to furnish range and he the cattle. Not having first hand knowledge of the section, the writer has made some inquiries about the Cumberland mountain district. It appears that for a number of years this section—in fact, the whole state of Tennessee—was under the ban of the cattle tick pest, which made successful cattle raising impossible. However, in 1906 the federal department of agriculture began co-operating with the state, and at the present writing all of the state but Hamilton county and a portion of Marion county has been removed from quarantine. The chief drawback in question would therefore seem to be removed. For the range conditions mentioned there is little question that the Herefords would be the best breed to raise. In the matter of getting a start conditions would depend somewhat upon the scale on which our correspondent wishes to go into the business. But whether on a large or modest scale it would be wise to get a well bred sire or sires of strong beef characteristics and a few pure bred cows. The rest of the cows should be grades of pronounced beef type, preferably of the same breed. If our friend has had no previous experience in cattle raising we would suggest that he take the business up on a rather limited scale at first, increasing his operations as he gets experience and becomes better acquainted with the new conditions. This will, of course, mean smaller profits in case the venture is successful, yet smaller losses in case of a reverse. The wisdom of going into partnership with the owners of the tracts referred to would seem to depend almost entirely upon whether the right kind of terms can be secured and whether the landowners in question will tote fair. This factor could be learned by making inquiry of disinterested persons knowing them well. With cheap and abundant pasture, good markets and the cattle tick pest eliminated, it would seem as if the proposition ought to be a money maker. This takes for granted that our correspondent is a rustler and possesses good judgment. If he takes up the business we would much like to hear from him when he gets squared away.

WHAT DETERMINES THE PRICE?

The proposal to admit Canadian wheat free under the terms of the reciprocity treaty has led to the statement of some rather interesting theories as to wheat movements and prices. On the one hand we have those of a rather practical turn of mind who contend that the admission into the United States duty free of Canadian wheat will in just the proportion that this bears to the total amount of wheat produced at home reduce the price thereon. On the other hand, we have the view of the economist and experienced wheat trader who contends the price of wheat at the big markets in the United States is not determined by home production and consumption in the larger sense at all, but by price levels prevailing on the London and Liverpool markets, which are the wheat clearing houses of the world. The wherefore of the above lies, so it is claimed, in the fact that wheat prices in the United States are determined by the price which our surplus or export wheat fetches on the foreign markets. It follows from the above, if true, that if, say, 250,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were diverted to points in the United States instead of going to English markets the supply at the latter points would be in that proportion lessened. This would mean, if the theory holds water, that the price got for our increased volume of export wheat would be increased as a result, so that in the end the price average would be the same as if the Canadian product were shipped directly to Europe. It would seem to be merely a matter of two ways of getting around the same stump.

A MANIFOLD RETURN.

While roses will give a manifold return in beauty, fragrance and all around satisfaction planted in almost any kind of soil, they thrive best in one which contains a good per cent of clay. If the soil about the house does not contain clay a wagon load can usually be got at no great distance. This should be mixed with the loam soil, and if thoroughly rotted manure, leaf mold or decomposed sod can be had so much the better. The roses should be set in the bed two or three inches deeper than they stood in the pot, should be sprinkled daily—sprayed with water under pressure, if possible—sprinkled with flower of sulphur for mildew, with road dust in the morning for slugs and with tobacco tea for spiders and lice. The best blossoms will be produced on the most rapidly growing wood, and this is secured by rather heavy pruning. This applies especially to teas like the American Beauty, but in a less degree to all hardy bush and climbing roses.

A DEAD STOMACH

Of What Use is it to Anyone? Thousands! yes hundreds of thousands of people throughout America are murdering their own stomachs, the best friend they have, and in their putting aside the laws of nature. This is no sensational statement; it is a startling fact, the truth of which any honorable physician will not deny.

These thousands of people are swallowing daily large quantities of pop-sin and other strong digesters, made especially to digest the food in the stomach without any aid at all from the digestive membrane of the stomach.

In other words they are taking from the stomach the work that nature intended it should do, and are also refusing it the only chance for exercise it has. MI-O-NA stomach tablets relieve distressed stomach in five minutes. Taken regularly for a few weeks they build up the stomach and make it strong enough to digest its own food. Then indigestion, belching, sour stomach, headache and stomach misery go.

MI-O-NA stomach tablets are sold by Duane Spalsbury at 50 cents a large box, and are guaranteed to cure all stomach distress or money back.

Doan's Kidney Pills have brought thousands of kidney sufferers back from the verge of despair.

Last winter I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and was led to procure a supply at Weinmann-Matthews Co.'s Drug Store. I began their use and in a short time felt so much better that I continued taking them until the pain and lameness in my back disappeared and my kidneys were restored to their normal condition. I am now eighty-one years of age and I attribute my good health to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills."

She Comes for Study, Business and Amusement, and Can't Be Left Out of the Social Reckoning.

She comes so generously, so eagerly, with such diverse purposes, and with such persistent, if seemingly intermittent regularity, that it is impossible to leave her out of any serious social reckoning.

She comes to study music, medicine, millinery, art, archery, astrology, agriculture, stenography, sculpture, the dance and the drama, hygiene and handicrafts, osteopathy and the art of conversation, journalism, theology, almost any and everything one can imagine. Broadway, State street, Broad street, all the great arteries of city life and traffic continually are crowded with her and her fellows. She comes looking for work as well as education. And, alas, poor youngster, she also comes looking for amusement.

The teachers of art, music, commercial branches, all the thousand things she studies, welcome her eagerly. So do the more jaded co-workers to whose custom-dulled perceptions she restores a sharper edge. Many employers prefer her services for this very reason.

Socially, the normal girl from the small town is famous for her flourishing. Ready, pliant, intensely alive, vitally desirous of tasting life to the utmost, she comes, sees and conquers fresh social kingdoms yearly. She is popular and prominent in the clubs, the churches, the schools, the social settlements, the work of the Young Women's Christian association, the trade and craft organizations—all the rich and varied life of the city.

But the abnormal or subnormal girl, from the small town, the girl who, perhaps, motherless, perhaps carelessly reared, perhaps the victim of innocent ignorance or sudden family disaster, faces metropolitan conditions less ably—ah! that's another tale.—The New Idea Woman's Magazine.

Traditions of Mother Shipton.

Of all British prophets, Mother Shipton is beyond doubt the most celebrated. She was, in fact, all that a prophet and witch should be, in contrast to the serious and scientific nostradamus. The day she was born the sky became dark and gloomy and, according to her biographer, "belched out nothing for half an hour but flames, thundering after a most hideous manner." Her personal appearance, described by her admiring biographer in 1662, is scarcely flattering: "Her physiognomy was so misshapen that it is altogether impossible to express fully in words, or for the most ingenious to line her in colors, though many persons of eminent qualifications in that line have often attempted it, but without success."—Metropolitan Magazine.

SALEM FARMER SERIOUSLY INJURED IN RUN-A-WAY

Michael Maulbetsch, who lives in Salem township in the locality known as Dutch Hill, was seriously injured Wednesday afternoon in Ann Arbor, when his team ran away with him on North Fifth avenue, pitching him out on his head and giving him some terrible injuries about the head. The wagon pole dropped down, frightening the team and they tore furiously down the street, crashing into a telephone pole with such force the wagon pole projected out on the other side.
Maulbetsch struck on the top of his head when thrown out and his head was split open. His right hand was also frightfully lacerated. He regained consciousness before being carried to the hospital in the ambu-

Feet Tired- So Tired?

TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well No Matter
What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.

It's the sure remedy, you know, for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweaty, bad-smelling feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too.

"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pains. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used." A. F.
Dreutzer, Chicago.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores.
TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does.
TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.
